

Claire S. Riley, MD

Claire S. Riley, MD, earned an undergraduate degree from Dartmouth College and a medical degree from Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. Dr. Riley completed an internship in Internal Medicine and a residency in Neurology at Columbia University Medical Center. In addition, she completed a two-year clinical fellowship in the Multiple Sclerosis (MS) Clinical Care & Research Center at Columbia University. Dr. Riley is board certified in neurology by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology.

She served as an attending neurologist and Assistant Professor for the Yale MS Center in New Haven, CT, before returning to Columbia University as Director of the Multiple Sclerosis Clinical Care and Research Center in 2012. Dr. Riley regularly teaches medical students, residents, and fellows in the MS Clinic at Columbia University, where she is also an investigator in clinical trials related to MS.